Writing, Reading, & Study Skills (WRSS) Tutor

Summary:

WRSS Tutors are responsible for providing support services to undergraduate students at San Francisco State University (SF State) through tutorial sessions, in-class workshops, and extensive cooperative classroom support through CARP’s Fellowship Program.

Starting pay rate is $15.25 per hour.

Job Description:

- Provide tutorial support services for SF State students seeking assistance with writing, reading, and study skills, including students enrolled in courses that fulfill the Graduation Writing Assessment Requirement (GWAR).
- Develop and present 45-, 60-, and 90-minute interactive workshops for students enrolled in GWAR and non-GWAR courses, both in the classroom and at CARP.
- Participate in CARP’s GWAR Writing Fellowship Program, which places WRSS Tutors in a GWAR Course for the entirety of a semester. GWAR writing fellows responsibilities include, but are not limited to: taking notes on class materials, participating in discussions pertaining to the writing process, facilitating group breakout sessions when they pertain to the writing process, and maintaining a written log of the assignments and lectures focused on writing so that other WRSS tutors may remain informed on the class’ progress should students from the GWAR Fellowship seek tutoring at CARP.
- Create academic handouts that focus on various elements of the writing process, grammatical concepts, study skills, and professional development.
- Present in-class information sessions that inform students about CARP’s services, basic policies, and how they can receive tutoring.
- Participate in on-going training and interactive analysis of college composition pedagogy.

Qualifications:

All applicants must:

- Be an SF State undergraduate student enrolled in at least 6 units or be an SF State graduate student enrolled in at least 4 units. Have and maintain a minimum overall SF State GPA of 3.0 and a 3.0 in the major discipline.
- Be able to contribute to the WRSS Unit’s development and presentation of workshops, information sessions, and other supplemental academic support services, as requested by the WRSS Unit Coordinators, and CARP’s Senior and Associate Program Coordinators.
- Be patient and have a strong desire to help students achieve their goals.
- Be motivated to learn new skills (e.g. tutoring approaches, public speaking techniques, discipline-specific writing styles).
Possess the ability to work with students in a one-on-one setting, as well as the ability to speak in front of groups and present academic workshops.

Demonstrate a strong understanding of the writing process.

Possess strong time management and stress management skills, including the ability to balance the demands of employment with academic pursuits.

Understand the importance of confidentiality of the students who seek academic support at CARP.

Direct experience providing academic support services to first-generation students and students from multicultural and low-income communities is preferred. Experience working in an office environment is also beneficial. Preference is given to students who have passed a GWAR course with a grade of B or better.
